SENTIMENT OF THE DAY SHOWN

People of All Classes Went Forth to Decorate Graves of Loved Ones.

VERY IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Were Held by Washington Camp No.
9, P. O. S. of A. of This City at Glenwood.

The functions of Decoration Day are so appropriate to the Sabbath, that many people, in divers places, went forth yesterday to decorate the graves of their loved ones and to pay tribute to the memory of the deceased soldiers of our country. Among the orders so doing the Patriotic Order Sons of America stands first and foremost.

Washington Camp No. 9, of this city in conjunction with the camp at Glenwood, held patriotic services in the Methodist church of that city, yesterday afternoon. The orders formed in line at the lodge hall and arrived at the church in time beginning services at 2:30 p. m.

John Mapes of Glenwood acted as chairman of the meeting and Mr. Oldham living near Connorsville was "marshal of the day."

The speeches were made by Prof. James H. Williams of this city and Mr. Edgar Rice, clerk of Hamilton county. They spoke to a large audience for the church was completely filled. Those present enjoyed a rare treat, for no utterance could have been more beautiful, appropriate, and native eloquent as an introductory speech for such an occasion, than was the address of Prof. Williams. He pictured in glowing terms the characteristics of the Grand Army of the Republic, and closed his address with the beautiful sentiment for soldiers voiced by the great orator, Robert G. Ingersoll: "Cheers for the living, tears for the dead."

No oration could have been more appropriate as a resume of the causes leading up to the war, nor as a summary of the principles involved and the interests at stake than was the classic utterance of Mr. Rice. He painted in picturesque phrases the great struggle between the North and South, and dramatically portrayed incidents of enlistment, departure and strife. He dwelt upon the moral phases of the struggle, and closed with a touching appeal to the young men present, that they emulate the civic virtues of the faithful soldiers of our Civil war, and strive to preserve in peace the rights and privileges, and new conditions established by the sword, wielded in a successful war for righteous causes.

Both speakers took occasion to pay high compliment to the P. O. S. of A. for as an organization it is doing much to inspire men in civil life to achieve the true purpose of peace.

We commend memorial services for the honored dead and all agencies, seeking to perpetuate the patriotic sentiment, for we take it, that patriotism and right understanding of the functions of enlightened liberty are the strongest safeguards a republic can have.

HAD ONE HERE FOR YEARS

New Castle Courier: New Castle is taking on city airs with a vengeance. There is a paid fire department, a fine team, a great hose wagon and chemical engine and now the firemen are going to sleep upstairs and slide down a pole. The pole was ordered purchased and installed Friday evening by the town board.

New Zealand's population at the close of last year was estimated at 1,020,000, the death rate being only 9.57 a thousand.

VICIOUS OWL KEEPS BLACK BIRDS AWAY

Capt. Reeve Says "March On—Don't Shoot at My Tree Protector"—
Sequel of Good Story.

HE HAS HAD IT FIVE YEARS

Of course you read the story of the ferocious owl in the Saturday Daily Republican! Well, here is the sequel. Capt. J. B. Reeve, in front of whose house the bird operates in his vicious attacks on pedestrians, is out with a statement that he does not want the owl harmed in any wise. Neither does he want it driven from his present happy nesting grounds. The captain says the owl has been in the tree for five years and he thinks as much of it as a member of the family or one of his geraniums beds, for it drives all the black birds out of the trees near his home. Of course this makes the black bird pest hard on those who live north and east of Capt. Reeve, but that is none of his funeral. Every well regulated family which is pestered with the black bird nuisance, should own an owl.

MAY BE THE 'WILD MAN FROM BORNEO'

John Link May Accept a Position as Chemist With a Rubber Company.

ON THE ISLAND OF BORNEO

John Link of Akron, Ohio, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Link for a few days, has not yet made up his mind as to whether or not he will be known as the "wild man from Borneo." John now has a position as chemist with the Goodrich Rubber company, but has recently had an offer which he is loath to refuse. A manufacturing company has made him an excellent proposition to go to the Island of Borneo, as their head chemist at a good salary. They ask him to sign a contract for one year, but would prefer to have him in their employ for five years. The company is engaged in working up the rubber from crude material and shipping it to this country. John has not yet decided to accept the position as he is fearful of the nickname which may be attached to him for life. Borneo is situated just south of the Philippine islands, all of which are a part of Oceania.

IS BEST NATION IN THE WORLD

Says Rev. Abberley While Preaching
the Baccalaureate Sermon Last Night.

IMPRESSIVE MUSIC WAS SUNG

Speaker Made Few Well Chosen Remarks to Graduates at Close of Address.

The forces that make our civilization are numerous according to Rev. R. W. Abberley, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon to an immense audience at the Main Street Christian church last night. He enumerated the various forces, which go to make our nation the most civilized, and as a result the most advanced nation in the world. He touched upon the prominent occurrences in our country's history, which are stepping stones to the greatness, which she has acquired and which she will acquire to a greater degree as the centuries pass. The minister in eloquent terms described the distressing periods through which the United States had passed and the marvelous progress which she had made in the short time that she has lived. He took the optimistic view of things, that the world was not growing worse day by day, but was progressing and that the people were now living in the best age that ever was, but not the best that ever will be.

Rev. Abberley considered the free educational system one of the greatest forces that make for our civilization. He told of the large number of emigrants, who come into the United States each year and how they are gradually made better citizens and are educated under the great free school system. If it were not for such a system many children would not know what it meant to be educated and could not enjoy the opportunities afforded by all now, as it would be beyond the means of many poor families. The school system also tends to instill into the heart of the child love for the country, which could be obtained in no other way.

The speaker used other nations in comparison to our country to show the advance made by the United States, while other countries lived and died. They, in a great measure, failed to use their natural resources while Americans took advantage of every resource and as a result, have the greatest nation in the world. But this country, said the speaker, is especially endowed with powers which can be found nowhere on the earth and for this reason can well be called God's own chosen land. He used figures to show the marvelous advance made by citizens of this country in developing the natural resources, how in the last century an average of 25,000 acres of land have been opened up each day.

In a few closing remarks, Rev. Abberley made a short address to the members of the class of '09 of the high school. His words were well chosen and made an impression on the members of the class which they will not soon forget.

The excellent musical program consisted of a duet by Mrs. M. R. McDaniel and B. F. Miller, and a quartet by Mrs. McDaniel, Miss Edith Holden, Jesse Pugh and B. F. Miller. Both numbers were far above the ordinary and did not fail to make a noticeable impression on the large audience.

Mr. Mahin died on the farm where he lived practically all his life. He led an exemplary Christian life and was respected by all who knew him. Deceased leaves a widow and eight children, A. T. Mahin, superintendent of the city light and water plant here, being a son.

Mr. Mahin was seventy-four years of age and made a success of life by many prosperous years on the farm which was located about one mile south of Manilla.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Jennett of Manilla at the home of the deceased Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in the Hurst cemetery.

COUNCIL TO APPROPRIATE IT

There has been much discussion as to where the money to pay back saloon license due the saloon keeper who was forced to go out before his license expired, is to come from. The matter is very easily explained by county attorney John A. Tittsworth, who says that it will be taken from the general fund, where it was placed. This money generally goes to the school fund, but has never yet been placed in that department. The county council will meet in special session in a few days to make the required appropriation.

JOURNEY TO BROWN COUNTY IN AN AUTO

A. B. Irvin Visits Mythical Home of
"Abe Martin"—Returns Covered
With Mud and Glory.

HAD AN EVENTFUL TRIP

Arthur Irvin took an automobile party to Brown county Sunday and it is safe to say that the trip was crowded with incidents. They went via Franklin and Morgantown, and it required all the patience of a Job to make the run to Nashville, the mythical home of "Abe Martin." The so-called or alleged roads are awfully bad at best, but on account of recent rains they were in such a condition that the people of Morgantown openly predicted that it would prove a fruitless and foolhardy attempt for Mr. Irvin to try and make Nashville in his Franklin car. They wanted to lay odds that he would have to be pulled back after going a few miles. However, the trip was made without an accident. It was the first time that a motorist ever went over the road at this season of the year, as part of the trip had to be made running through water where creek beds are used for highways. They have a rock bottom and seldom have over a few inches of water in them.

SECTION HANDS UP BEFORE THE SQUIRE

Sam Young Filed Temporary Restraining Order Against L. E.
& W. Railroad.

CAUSED HIM A HEAVY LOSS.

Charles Rogers, Michael Sholein, and John Sholein, section hands on the L. E. & W. railroad were arrested Saturday morning and taken before Squire Kratzer. They were dismissed on their own recognizance and the trial will come up next Saturday. A temporary restraining order was filed by Samuel Young against them who claimed that the employees of the railroad had broken a dam in a ditch near his farm which has caused his fields to be flooded resulting in a heavy loss. The defendants claim that Young had dammed up the ditch and the water had backed upon their property.

Young filed injunction proceedings in the circuit court against the railroad company and the case was tried, but Judge Sparks refused to return any decision since he was related to the plaintiff Sam Young and his attorneys Young & Young. Watson, Tittsworth & Green represented the defendant.

WALKING WAS CROWDED.

The east pike, leading to East Hill cemetery, was thronged with vehicles and pedestrians all day yesterday and today, going to decorate the graves of some departed friend or relative.

THREW FLOWER TO BEN BUTLER

Dr. Tevis Gave Deserved Praise to the Man Who Helped to Free the Slaves.

G. A. R. ATTENDED IN A BODY

Were Impressed With a Forceful Discourse—Old Vets Highly Pleased With Musical Program.

Special Memorial Day services were conducted at St. Paul's M. E. church Sunday morning and the G. A. R. marched to the church in a body. Jabez Smith was color bearer and nearly every member of the corps was in line. Dr. V. W. Tevis delivered a forceful lecture, briefly and in an interesting manner reviewing the Civil war. His discourse was interspersed with snatches of history not generally known and many things unpublished; then there were prophecies regarding the future of this great country; how it would be impossible for another Civil war under any condition and how completely the imaginary line of Mason-Dixon had been wiped away for all time to come.

Dr. Tevis paid a glowing tribute to Lincoln, but in another sentence gave to Ben Butler much of the credit for the freeing of the slaves. He declared that it was Butler who started the sands dropping through the glass that finally resulted in the emancipation. There was a fine touch of local color put into the address when Dr. Tevis graphically described how the hopeful darkies, away back in the cotton fields would sing out, "There's a great day a comin'—a great day a comin'—a day of Jubilee." It came to them but it was largely through the suggestion made by Butler that the colored men be given guns and help fight for their rights, that that day of jubilee came to them.

The Ladies Glee club touched the hearts of the old veterans when they sang "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camping Grounds," and there were few dry eyes in their number, for nothing brings back so vividly a scene of yesteryears like a familiar song or melody. Miss Hazel Cox, assisted by the choir sang "The Red, White and Blue," and it goes without saying that the boys in blue could hardly refrain from keeping time with their feet despite the fact they were assembled at a church service. Don Rogers sang "Gone to Their Rest," the Decoration Day song published in the Daily Republican Saturday evening. Hale Pearse sang a beautiful and appropriate tenor solo "The Vacant Chair" and it had a telling effect on the old soldiers, who realized that soon they would be among the ones mourned from a vacant chair. Altogether it was an impressive and beautiful service.

The total rainfall of this country, including snow and that on water areas, was given as 215,000,000,000 cubic feet a year.

DEPOSITORS ARRESTED

Authorities Say They Have a Lead in Indianapolis Bank Sensation.

Indianapolis, May 31.—Paul C. Gall, a well-known Indianapolis tobacco dealer, and prominent in local politics, was arrested by United States authorities on the charge of being an accomplice of Max Emmerich, the defaulting bookkeeper of the Capital National bank.

Mr. Gall was released on a $5,000 bond to appear before the United States commissioner tomorrow morning. Mr. Gall appeared to be completely surprised, and he declared emphatically that he was not guilty and that there was not the slightest foundation for the charge.

Confronted in the Capital National bank and asked to explain an account to his credit there, Harry C. Prinzler, a young man living at 331 East North street, broke down and confessed that he had been used as a "dummy" by Emmerich. Prinzler's confession included statements concerning Paul Gall. Prinzler was immediately arrested and gave bond in the sum of $5,000.

The detectives that worked on the case have apparently found no trace of Emmerich since he disappeared a week ago Saturday. The charge against Mr. Gall is based on certain transactions during November and December, 1907. It is alleged that he overchecked his account at the Capital National bank to the extent of about $2,800, and the bank officials assert that Emmerich so manipulated his accounts as to hide the discrepancy.

HONOR FOR MEN OF GETTYSBURG

Memorials of States to Their Fallen
Soldiers Receive Formal Addition by the Nation.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 31.—Standing near the spot where Lincoln declared that the men who perished at Gettysburg had not died in vain, his successor in office, William H. Taft, today dedicated a monument to the men of the regular army who died that the nation might live.

The monument at Gettysburg, which was unveiled by Miss Helen Taft, the daughter of the president, is the first to be erected to the memory of the GETTYSBURG MONUMENT.

Gettysburg martyrs of the regular organization. Practically all of the states whose sons fought in the battle erected monuments to them on the field which marked the "high tide of the rebellion" long ago. Congress waited forty years to honor the men who represented all the north without distinction of state.

War Department in Charge.

The matter of the dedication of the monument has been in the keeping of the war department, and one of the speakers at today's dedication was Secretary of War Dickinson. A special committee consisting of Assistant Secretary Oliver, Lieutenant General John C. Bates, retired; General J. F. Bell, chief of staff, and Colonel Nicholson, representing the Gettysburg national park commission has had charge of the monument.

The inscriptions on the four sides of the monument give details of the losses of the regular artillery, cavalry and infantry in the battle and declare that it was "erected by the congress to commemorate the services of that portion of the Army of the Potomac composed of cavalry, artillery, infantry and engineers of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign, June-July, 1863." The monument is a beautiful shaft eighty-five feet high, surrounded at the base by a broad granite terrace. It stands a short distance south of high water mark of the battle.

Efforts had been made to secure the attendance at Gettysburg of as many survivors of the battle as possible, and several of the leading men who helped to make history in and near the little Pennsylvania town were present.

Battlefield Graves Decorated.

Pilgrimages are being made to the prominent monuments, which have been adorned with flowers and wreaths. Memorial day is always a great time at Gettysburg, but this year the visit of the president and the army officials and veterans adds much to the solemnity and dignity of the day.

Orders had been issued for the attendance of about 2,000 soldiers of the regular army, including a squadron of the Fifteenth cavalry, at Fort Meyer, Va.; a battalion of the Third field artillery, at Fort Meyer; the Fifth regiment of infantry, at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y.; four companies of coast artillery from the artillery district of the Potomac, and four companies of the coast artillery from the artillery district of Delaware and five companies of coast artillery from the artillery district of Baltimore.

VILLAGE WIPED OUT BY TEXAS TORNADO

By Strange Irony of Fate Its Name Is Zephyr.

Brownwood, Tex., May 31.—A tornado struck the little village of Zephyr, in the eastern portion of Brown county, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning and left a path of death and destruction. The death list has reached a total of thirty-two and the number of seriously and fatally wounded will reach fifty. A score are more or less injured. The storm formed half a mile southwest of Zephyr and swept down upon the village, cutting a wide swath directly through the residence and business district. Nearly fifty houses were entirely demolished. Lightning struck a lumber yard and started a conflagration which destroyed one entire business block. No effort was made to fight the fire, as the care of the dead and wounded victims demanded all attention.

First Reports Exaggerated.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 31.—Late reports from the storm-stricken district near Key West, Okla., are to the effect that no lives were lost, though the number of injured is about fifteen, two fatally. The property loss will be large.

RIOT IN CINCINNATI

Prompt Arrival of Police Probably Prevented Murder at Open-Air Meeting.

Cincinnati, May 31.—Bloodshed was narrowly averted at Clinton and Central avenues last evening when a religious street meeting was held at that corner by P. Levinson, a converted Jew, and his followers. The place is in the heart of the Jewish settlement, and that their territory should be invaded in an effort to convert them caused general ill feeling among the residents. The prompt arrival of the police probably prevented murder.

The company of speakers was greeted with boos and hisses as they commenced their meeting and the residents with loud noises and phonographs attempted to drown out their speaking. This was followed by eggs and vegetables being thrown at the speakers, ending in a general fight.

Trouble over the dog resulted in Cain's death and the lynching of the negro.

VETERANS SHARE DAY WITH SPORT

Athletic Contests Vie With Memorial Ceremonies—In Celebration of The Day.

USUAL PARADES ARE HELD

New York, Chicago and Other Cities
Pay Honor to the Soldiers' Memories.

Although the spirit of Memorial day, honoring the memory of the men "who died that the nation might live," prevailed in the north today and there were military and civic demonstrations of regard for those who fell in the great struggle, the day had to yield some of its solemnity to the modern cult of outdoor sport. Orations telling of the heroic fighters of old are interrupted nowadays by the crack of the peaceful pistol setting off runners or oarsmen or other athletic contestants in less earnest strife. The time-honored processions of the dwindling ranks of the old vets, reinforced by the newer veterans of the war with Spain and the younger men of the army and militia, marched again down the streets of our villages and cities and towns, to be followed by the scantily clad athletes who compete, not for the glories of war, but for the prizes of sport. The wreaths covering soldiers' graves mingle with the laurels of the victors in the games.

Chief among today's sporting events are the automobile hill climb up Giant's Despair mountain, near Wilkesbarre, Pa.; the similar event at Bridgeport, Conn.; the annual Harvard-Cornell boat race on Lake Cayuga, N. Y., and the balloon race at St. Louis.

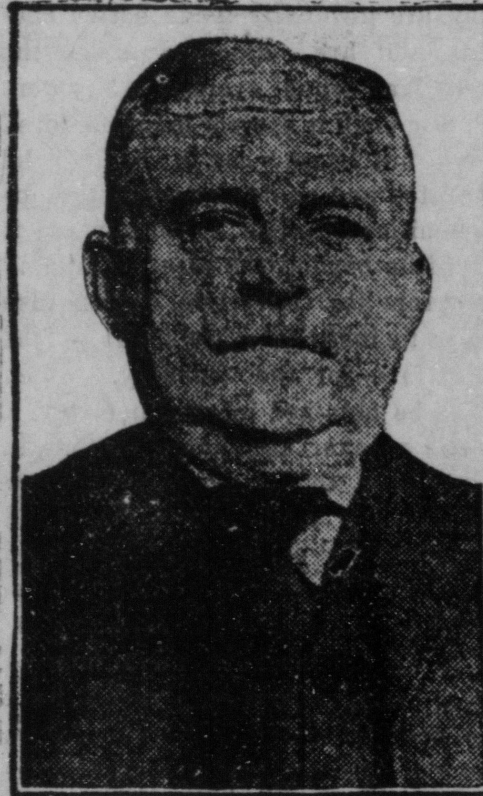

More fittingly honoring the spirit of the day are the closing for the day of the sessions of the United States supreme court and the parades in New York, Chicago and other cities. An annual feature of Memorial day in New York city is the parade of the work horses.

THE END OF MAY

Witnessed Closing Out of Biggest Deal in Grain Ever Carried Out.

Chicago, May 31.—The greatest wheat deal in Chicago's speculative annals came to a successful end Saturday. There was but one quotation for May wheat—$1.34.

James A. Patten, leader of the bull campaign, was not on the trading floor. He sat throughout the session in his office, chewing gum incessantly, occasionally reading or answering a message.

A trader who knows most of the inner workings of the bull campaign in May wheat from its start to finish, said: "The campaign was based entirely upon the cash situation. It was the largest and most successful, and most profitable, campaign in wheat that has ever been run, taking the world's markets. Even the original deal in which Joseph was interested in Egypt does not compare with it. There was not a moment at any period when there was the least uneasiness on the part of the bull leaders." Patten said after the close that he was satisfied. He was still a bull on wheat.

Shot by Freight Trainman.

Bloomington, Ill., May 31.—John Dooley, a young trainman of the Chicago and Alton, confessed last night upon arriving in Chicago that he had shot and killed William Jackson of Marion, Ind., who was trying to beat his way upon the train handled by Dooley. Dooley was brought back here and will be given a hearing.

The Philadelphia Strike.

Philadelphia, May 31.—There is practically no change in the strike situation in this city. Cars are running on every line in the city, but the service is considerably crippled. None of the conductors or motormen who struck, the strike leaders say, has made application for their old positions.

Words and Music of Frank McIntyre's Big Song Hit Sociability

Frank J. McIntyre, playing "THE TRAVELING SALESMAN," Gayety Theatre, New York, has just written a new song that would bring cheer to the heart of a mummy. He calls it "SOCIALITY." This is the song that we give our readers this week. It is the "assassination of sorrow" as Mr. McIntyre would say. Everybody is singing it.

Mr. McIntyre, who has made such a pronounced success this season as the "TRAVELING SALESMAN," like many other leading players, has a side of his work of which the general public has heretofore unfortunately known little, for, aside from laugh-provoking powers as a comedian, Mr. McIntyre is a musician of no mean ability.

Before adopting the stage as a profession, Mr. McIntyre studied piano and musical composition in the conservatories in Ann Arbor, Mich., and at one time directed one of the largest singing societies in Michigan, composed of over a hundred voices, and it was then thought that he would become one of the most prominent directors in the country, and those who knew him then were as greatly surprised to learn of his success as a comedian as his present admirers will be to learn of his musical ability and distinction as a song writer.

The air of geniality and good-fellowship so much a part of this big comedian is shown in the song "SOCIALITY" that will be published in our columns this week. Don't miss it.

THE GUILTY PARTY

By O. HENRY.

[Copyright, 1908, by S. S. McClure Co.]

A RED haired, unshaven, untidy man sat in a rocking chair by a window. He had just lighted a pipe and was puffing blue clouds with great satisfaction. He had removed his shoes and donned a pair of blue, faded carpet slippers. With the morbid thirst of the confirmed daily news drinker, he awkwardly folded back the pages of an evening paper, eagerly gulping down the strong, black headlines, to be followed as a chaser by the milder details of the smaller type.

In an adjoining room a woman was cooking supper. Odors from strong bacon and boiling coffee contended against the cut plug fumes from the vespertine pipe.

Outside was one of those crowded streets of the east side in which as twilight falls Satan sets up his recruiting office. A mighty host of children danced and ran and played in the street. Above the playground forever hovered a great bird. The bird was known to humorists as the stork. But the people of Chrystie street were better ornithologists. They called it a culture.

A little girl of twelve came up timidly to the man reading and resting by the window and said:

"Papa, won't you play a game of checkers with me if you aren't too tired?"

The red haired, unshaven, untidy man sitting shoeless by the window answered, with a frown:

"Checkers! No; I won't. Can't a man who works hard all day have a little rest when he comes home? Why don't you go out and play with the other kids on the sidewalk?"

The woman who was cooking came to the door.

"John," she said, "I don't like for Lizzie to play in the street. They learn too much there that ain't good for 'em. She's been in the house all day long. It seems that you might give up a little of your time to amuse her when you come home."

"Let her go out and play like the rest of 'em if she wants to be amused," said the red haired, unshaven, untidy man, "and don't bother me."

"You're on," said Kid Mullaly. "Fifty dollars to $25 I take Annie to the dance. Put up."

The Kid's black eyes were snapping with the fire of the baited and challenged. He drew out his "roll" and slapped five tens upon the bar. The three or four young fellows who were thus "taken" more slowly produced their stake.

"And, oh, what'll be done to you'll be a plenty," said a better, with anticipatory glee.

"That's my lookout," said the Kid sternly. "Fill 'em up all around, Mike."

After the round Burke, the Kid's sponge, sponge holder, pal, mentor and grand vizier, drew him out to the boot-black stand at the saloon corner, where all the official and important matters of the Small Hours Social club were settled.

"Cut that blond out, Kid," was his advice, "or there'll be trouble. What do you want to throw down that girl of yours for? You'll never find one that'll freeze to you like Liz has. She's worth a hall full of Annes."

"I'm no Annie admirer!" said the Kid, dropping a cigarette ash on his polished toe and wiping it off on Tony's shoulder. "But I want to teach Liz a lesson. She thinks I belong to her. She's been bragging that I daren't speak to another girl. Liz is all right—in some ways. She's drinking a little too much lately. And she uses language that a lady oughtn't."

"You're engaged, ain't you?" asked Burke.

"Sure. We'll get married next year, maybe."

"I saw you make her drink her first glass of beer," said Burke. "That was two years ago, when she used to come down to the corner of Chrystie bare-headed to meet you after supper. She was a quiet sort of a kid then and couldn't speak without blushing."

"She's a little spitfire sometimes now," said the Kid. "I hate jealousy. That's why I'm going to the dance with Annie. I'll teach her some sense."

"Well, you better look a little out," were Burke's last words. "If Liz was my girl and I was to sneak out to a dance coupled up with an Annie I'd want a suit of chain armor on under my gladsome rags, all right."

Through the land of the stork-vulture wandered Liz. Her black eyes searched the passing crowds fiercely, but vaguely. Now and then she hummed bars of foolish little songs.

Liz's skirt was green silk. Her waist was a large brown and pink plaid, well fitting and not without style. She wore a cluster of rings of huge imitation rubies and a locket that banged her knees at the bottom of a silver chain. Her shoes were run down over twisted high heels and were strangers to polish. Her hat would scarcely have passed into a flour barrel.

The "family entrance" of the Blue Jay cafe received her.

"Whisky, Tommy," she said as her sisters farther uptown murmur,

"Champagne, James."

"Sure, Miss Lizzie! What'll the chaser be?"

"Seltzer. And, say, Tommy, has the Kid been around today?"

"Why, no, Miss Lizzie, I haven't saw him today."

"I'm lookin' for 'm," said Liz after the chaser had sputtered under her nose. "It's got to me that he says he'll take Annie Karlson to the dance. Let him. The pink eyed white rat! I'm lookin' for 'm. You know me, Tommy. Two years me and the Kid've been engaged. Look at that ring. Five hundred he said it cost. Let him take her to the dance. What'll I do? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

"I wouldn't listen to no such reports, Miss Lizzie," said the waiter smoothly from the narrow opening above his chin. "Kid Mullaly's not the guy to throw a lady like you down. Seltzer on the side?"

"Two years," repeated Liz, softening a little to sentiment under the magic of the distiller's art. "I always used to play out on the street of evenin's 'cause there was nothin' doin' for me at home. For a long time I just sat on doorsteps and looked at the lights and the people goin' by. And then the Kid came along one evenin' and sized me up, and I was mashed on the spot for fair. The first drink he made me take I cried all night at home and got a lickin' for makin' a noise. And now—say, Tommy, you ever see this Annie Karlson? If it wasn't for peroxide the chloroform limit would have put her out long ago. Oh, I'm lookin' for 'm. You tell the Kid if he comes in. Me? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

A little unsteadily, but with watchful and brilliant eyes, Liz walked up the avenue toward the Small Hours Social club.

At 9 o'clock the president, Kid Mullaly, paced upon the floor with a lady on his arm. As the Lorelei's was her hair golden. Her "yes" was softened to a "yah," but its quality of assent was patent to the most Milesian ears. She stepped upon her own train and blushed, and—she smiled into the eyes of Kid Mullaly.

And then as the two stood in the middle of the waxed floor the thing happened to prevent which many lamps are burning nightly in many studies and libraries.

Out from the circle of spectators in the hall leaped Fate in a green silk skirt under the nom de guerre of Liz. Her eyes were hard and blacker than jet. She did not scream or waver. Most unwomanly she cried out one oath, the Kid's own favorite oath and in his own deep voice, and then while the Small Hours Social club went frantically to pieces she made good her boast to Tommy, the waiter—made good as far as the length of her knife blade and the strength of her arm permitted.

Liz ran out and down the street swift and true as a woodcock flying through a grove of saplings at dusk. And then followed the big city's biggest shame, handed down from a long ago century of the basest barbarity—the hue and cry. Nowhere but in the big cities does it survive, and here most of all, where the ultimate perfection of culture, citizenship and alleged superiority joins bawling in the chase.

They pursued, a shrieking mob of fathers, mothers, lovers and maidens, howling, yelling, calling, whistling, crying for blood.

Knowing her way and hungry for her surcease, she darted down the familiar ways until at last her feet struck the dull solidity of the rotting pier. And then it was but a few more panting steps, and good mother East river took Liz to her bosom, soothed her muddled, but quickly, and settled in five minutes the problem that keeps lights burning o' nights in thousand of pastorates and colleges.

It's mighty funny what kind of dreams one has sometimes. Poets call them visions, but a vision is only a dream in blank verse. I dreamed the rest of this story.

I thought I was in the next world and there was a great crowd of us outside the courtroom where the judgments were going on. And every now and then a very beautiful and imposing court officer angel would come outside the door and call another case in a loud voice.

While I was considering my own wordly sins and wondering whether there would be any use of my trying to prove an alibi by claiming that I lived in New Jersey the bailiff angel came to the door and sang out, "Case No. 99,852,743!"

Up stepped a plain clothes man—there were lots of 'em there, dressed exactly like preachers and hustling us spirits around just as cops do on earth—and by the arm he dragged—whom, do you think? Why, Liz!

The court officer took her inside and closed the door. I went up to Mr. Fly Cop and inquired about the case.

"A very sad one," says he, laying the points of his manicured fingers together—"an utterly incorrigible girl. I am special terrestrial officer, the Rev. Jones. The case was assigned to me. The girl murdered her fiance and committed suicide. She had no defense. My report to the court relates the facts in detail, all of which are substantiated by reliable witnesses. The wages of sin is death. Praise the Lord!"

The court officer opened the door and stepped out.

"Poor girl!" said Special Terrestrial Officer the Rev. Jones, with a tear in his eye. "It was one of the saddest cases that I ever met with. Of course she was—"

"Discharged," said the court officer. "Come here, Jonesy. First thing you know you'll be switched to the potpie squad. How would you like to be on the missionary force in the south sea islands—hey? Now, you quit making these false arrests or you'll be transferred—see! The guilty party you've got to look for in this case is a red haired, unshaven, untidy man, sitting by the window reading in his stocking feet while his children play in the streets. Get a move on you!"

Now, wasn't that a silly dream?

STREET RAILWAY SCHOOL.

Institution Planned For Training Young Men to Be Managers.

With the object of raising the standard of street railway employees Oren Root, Jr., general manager of the Metropolitan Street Railway company in New York, has perfected plans for the establishment of a training school in which graduates of colleges and scientific schools will be fitted for the technical and practical work of the street car business. The company will defray all the expenses of the school and will pay the students living wages during the course of two years. During the first year the student will be paid $15 a week. The second year men will receive $20 a week. To give him a general idea of the street railway business he will be assigned to duty in the maintenance of way, the electrical, the equipment and the transportation departments, spending three months in each department.

"It is my intention," said Mr. Root, "to establish a practical training school for young men, particularly graduates of high schools, manual training schools, colleges and universities, who have had more or less technical training and who intend to enter upon the vocation of operating street railroads. It is the aim to make the conditions advantageous to the young man who has an inclination to enter upon work of this character."

"Such a man under the proposed plan will have an opportunity to acquaint himself with the details of the work, while receiving at the same time a salary which will, with strict economy, enable him to be self supporting. He may thus determine for himself whether he is fitted and has a liking for employment of this character. On the other hand, the Metropolitan Street Railway company will profit by the experiment in that it will be possible to test the capacity, ability and adaptability of applicants, who will constitute a body of candidates from whom men may be chosen when it becomes necessary to fill vacancies in the regular operating staff."

THE "PANTALON GOWN."

Newest Feminine Creation Pairs Above Knees, Revealing Trousers.

"Pantolon gowns" will be seen in Fifth avenue and Broadway, New York, not later than the first week in June, and the new thriller in feminine wearing apparel sets the directorate gown upon a pedestal of modesty.

It is made of light olive chiffon broadcloth, with a train fifty-six inches in length, trimmed with French cord embroidery, embroidered ecru chantilly lace and black satin. Twelve dozen self colored buttons are used. It has the directorate back, long effect, Louis XIV. front and bolero shape. Seven yards of cloth compose the whole dress.

But that is not the point. When the wearer stands still it resembles an ordinary pretty costume. The moment she moves it is quite different. What has seemed a skirt parts just above the knees, and regular trousers come into view—trousers, just trousers. They make no pretense of being anything else.

They measure thirty-six inches around the bottom and reach to the shoe soles. A seam that goes up the front of the skirt from the knees to the waist gives an all pantolon appearance to the front of the garment.

No underskirts can be worn with this costume, and the lingerie bills of those who adopt it will be a negligible quantity.

WILLIAMS OF ELLIS ISLAND.

Career of New Immigration Commissioner at New York.

SILENT, BUT KEEPS IN ACTION

Held Present Office Once Before, Stepping Out Suddenly, In the Roosevelt Administration—Son of Yale and Mountain Climber, With Good Reform Record.

William Williams, the new commissioner of immigration for the port of New York, returns to that post to complete the work of reorganization and reconstruction begun by him seven years ago after his appointment by former President Roosevelt. Then Williams remained less than three years in office, resigning abruptly when "housecleaning" on Ellis Island was in full swing. No explanation was forthcoming at Washington, and none could be obtained at that time from the retiring commissioner.

His action was as unexpected by his subordinates as by the public, and the day that he left the island every man and woman and boy on the government payroll, although many of them had felt the silent man's sharp discipline, was in the big hall to shake hands and say goodbye.

Just to show what they thought of him the employees produced a huge silver loving cup, which cost something like $700, and a testimonial containing a picture of Ellis island and 200 autographs.

When asked the reason for such a demonstration in honor of a man who had caused the upheaval and disturbance of time honored customs, one of the men said:

"Every employee on the island knew he could get a square deal from the commissioner."

Williams' zeal in going to the bottom of things in the immigration bureau had uncovered much graft and corruption. Then, suddenly, he stepped down and out.

Evidently President Taft thinks that this man and his ideas on reform are not so visionary as the advisers of President Roosevelt would have had him believe. Williams was prevailed upon to take up his work again solely upon the grounds that it was a public duty which he could not decline. He did decline at first, but the argument of the president finally prevailed, and the quiet man of Ellis island goes back to that important station satisfied that this time he will have a free hand in the task before him.

A man with independent means and a comfortable law practice, Williams is under obligation to no one, and every success he has attained since leaving New London, Conn., the place of his birth, has been won by sheer force of energy and ability.

His family put him through the public schools and then sent him to Germany, where for five years he was a student at the German gymnasium in Wiesbaden, and he entered Yale with the class of '84, being graduated and taking a course in law at Harvard. He began practice in New York in the fall of 1888 and has been a resident of that city ever since.

In 1892-3 Williams acted as junior counsel for the United States in the Bering sea arbitration in Paris. Five years later, when war with Spain was declared, he left his law practice and went out as a private with the war troop of Squadron A. His energy and ability were soon rewarded by promotion, and he went into the quartermaster's department with the rank of major, taking a troopship to Porto Rico. This was the end of his military service, typhoid bringing him down and making him an invalid until the following year, when he went back to the practice of law.

President Roosevelt in 1902 asked him to go to Ellis island, and he accepted. In 1905 he resigned.

The president publicly commended him for his administration. Yale university conferred the honorary degree of master of arts upon him, and he retired to private life. Since then he has practiced law and climbed mountains, with considerable distinction in both, although the public knows little about either.

As a mountain climber he has scaled the highest peaks in Switzerland, has qualified for and been elected to the English Alpine club and was completing plans to tackle some of the highest peaks in eastern Europe when the present situation confronted him.

Such, in brief, is the career of a man upon whom considerable public attention will be focused in the next four years. No port of entry into the United States bears more closely upon the many grave problems arising from the tide of alien races daily breaking against the country's gates.

With Williams when he retired from office went many who had helped him in sweeping the island clean, who had started the work of building a larger and more sanitary immigration station, who had helped in the reorganization of the system of handling ignorant aliens, who had substituted humane and honest dealings in place of brutal and mercenary transactions that once existed and who had succeeded in driving grafters from the service.

Williams is not a plodder. He acts, and he keeps in action, accepting full and complete responsibility for everything he does and demanding obedience, loyalty and a maximum working time from every subordinate.—New York Post.

Financial failure, dullness of trade and idleness are unlikely in a community, yea, all but impossible, so long as you can continue to exercise this lesson of home trade, unity of interest and community of fellowship.

How much is a man worth is usually answered in dollars and cents, but that gives no real idea of a man's value. A man is worth just so much as he makes himself by his character and by the value of the things in which he concerns himself.

Some men, however talented and accomplished, never succeed in life while others no better endowed mentally or educationally win success in everything they take hold of. Perhaps the reason lies in the fact that those who fail have no snap while the others have.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

A FREAK OF NATURE.

(New Castle Courier.)

One of the most curious animals ever seen in New Castle is exhibited in a tent on the McDowell lot, east of the depot. It is a five-legged horse, owned by W. H. Wood of Shirley. The horse is nine years old and weighs 1100 pounds. The owner claims it is the only five-legged horse that has been born and lived. The most curious feature is that the leg is a natural leg two and a half feet long and located on the head, coming out between the ears. It is well formed and the same as any other leg. It is attracting wide attention and is well worth the price of admission. The horse is nicely displayed in the tent and ladies need not hesitate about calling.

ARE ALL UP IN THE AIR.

(Greenfield Tribune.)

The roof garden over New's block, the first amusement place of its kind ever installed in Greenfield, will be opened to the public today. Everything is in readiness and if the weather is favorable, it will be a busy place all afternoon and evening. Seats and tables have been installed to accommodate scores of guests, and a small stage has been built for vaudeville performances. A string of electric lights entirely encircles the garden and it will certainly be a pleasant place, especially of an evening.

Animals and Humans Are Both Benefited by Unrestricted Vivisection.

By VERANUS A. MOORE, Director of the New York State Veterinary College, Cornell University.

ANTHRAX, the germs of which are scattered in many places in the United States, would be a source of great loss were it not for the fact that by means of ACTUAL EXPERIMENT UPON A FEW ANIMALS its cause has been demonstrated and methods for its control established. Instead of being a PERPETUAL SCOURGE it causes little more than an OCCASIONAL LOSS of an animal. It is by knowledge derived from animal experimentation alone that it has been possible to bring scourges like the foot and mouth disease, Texas fever, rinderpest, rabies and contagious pleuropneumonia under the present state of subjection. This has NOT ONLY PREVENTED MUCH SUFFERING TO MILLIONS OF ANIMALS, BUT IT HAS ALSO SAVED THEM FOR THEIR OWNERS.

TO PROHIBIT OR RESTRICT EXPERIMENTS UPON LIVING ANIMALS FOR THE PURPOSE OF DETERMINING THE CAUSES AND CURES OF VARIOUS DISEASES WOULD BE A CALAMITY TO THE AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS OF THE STATE AS WELL AS TO THOSE CONCERNED IN DEALING WITH HUMAN AILMENTS.

As an evidence of this it is only necessary to consider the diseases of live stock which have already been conquered and practically suppressed as the result of DISCOVERIES MADE THROUGH ANIMAL EXPERIMENTATION. In England, where such experiments are restricted by law, Dr. Fleming, one of the most prominent authorities on animal diseases, makes the statement that this policy has cost the country and its colonies "untold millions." If we judge simply from a commercial point of view we cannot afford to relinquish the investigations which have done so much to assist this country in building up an annual export trade of $250,000,000 in animals and animal products, with an invested capital in live stock, exclusive of poultry, of nearly $5,000,000,000.

A PERUVIAN REVOLT QUICKLY PUT DOWN

Government Troops Acted Promptly in Political Crisis.

Lima, Peru, May 31.—Revolutionists under direction of Isaias Pierola, a notorious agitator, seized President Leguia and took him to a public square with the intention of compelling him to resign. Troops who were dispatched to the rescue of President Leguia fired upon the mob, killing more than forty. The revolt was quelled.

Order has been completely re-established. President Leguia has issued a proclamation thanking the people for their refusal to support the revolutionary movement and asking their co-operation in the way of progress. Many leaders of the factions which took part in the rising have been arrested.

THE STUMBLING BLOCK

Though Georgia Strike Is Over, the Race Problem Remains.

Atlanta, Ga., May 31.—Officials of the Georgia railroad and of the Brotherhood of Firemen spent nearly the entire day Sunday in conference over those points in the strike agreement which remain to be settled. Commissioner Neill, Chairman Knapp and Second Assistant Postmaster General Stuart were present. It seems very likely that the disputed questions will have to go to a board of arbitration finally, under the Erdman act.

The big stumbling block in the path of settlement is the retention of the negro firemen in any capacity. There is no doubt that all other points will be adjusted by the contending parties without arbitration.

Senate Making Slow Progress.

Washington, May 31.—Progress on the tariff bill is being made steadily between speeches, and while the leaders are unable to predict the end, they feel that the time for the final vote is gradually approaching, and they now predict that the work will be disposed of in time to permit congress to finally adjourn early in July. The outlook for the present week is for many speeches and for slow progress on the schedule.

BIG TOBACCO KIT FOR KERMIT

Young Roosevelt Took It Along to Give to Natives of Africa.

Kermit Roosevelt, as official photographer of his father's African expedition, foreseeing that he could win the friendship of natives with tobacco rather than with money, laid in a generous smoking kit just before sailing. This is what he took: One hundred and twenty-five briarwood pipes, 200 short stemmed clay pipes, two dozen long stemmed churchwardens, 500 small packages of granulated smoking tobacco, 60 pounds of cut plug smoking, 100 tins of high grade birdseye, 80 pounds of plug chewing, 80 pounds of fine cut and 3,000 cigarettes.

When the package was ready for shipment it took up a space of sixteen cubic feet, the largest consignment of smoking material ever placed on board a transatlantic liner as the property of an individual.

Will Build a Magic House.

A contractor in Wilmington, Del., recently began the work of constructing the most unique apartment house ever built in Wilmington. It will be an electric automatic building, so that one room can be quickly converted into another. The structure has been described as a theatrical house. By pressing a button the occupant has a bedroom, and when he touches another button he finds himself in the sitting room, another button and he finds himself with the family at dinner.

Fashion Hint in Footgear.

White buckskin pumps and oxfords are correct for morning and afternoon wear at seashore, summer resorts or country home.

Big Diamond in His Cigar.

Levi J. Satterfield of Milford, Del., wondered why a cigar that he was smoking the other day did not draw. On investigating he found a handsome diamond of 2 carats, worth $300, firmly imbedded in the "filler." The only theory that Satterfield has as to the ownership of the jewel is that it was dropped into the tobacco by a packer before the cigar was made.

Live Fowl at a Banquet.

Quacking ducks, crowing roosters and 200 incubator chickens, running loose in a wired inclosure in the center of a round dinner table, constructed to represent a farmyard scene, was the setting with which Mrs. J. B. Greenhut of New York surprised fifty friends at a dinner she recently gave at the Hotel Netherland in New York. The dinner was one of many novel affairs given lately at the hotel by Mrs. Greenhut. At one dinner baby kangaroo meat was served. The dish cost the hostess $200.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, May 31.—In view of the big victory won by the Anti-Saloon league in Madison county, it is believed that it will not waste much time in laying plans to vote Vigo, Allen, St. Joseph and Lake counties "dry." The experience of the past week in the large "wet" centers has shown that the Anti-Saloon league cannot win without the active support of the women. It is said that the women of Madison county established a national precedent with the organization they put up. They organized every precinct in the county and laid out blocks which were given over to lieutenants to work. A house-to-house appeal was made to the men to vote against the saloons and although the county was supposed to be "wet" the women overcame the odds. A peculiar feature of the situation in this state is that the large manufacturing centers are more vulnerable than the older cities like Logansport, LaPorte, Michigan City and Lafayette. It was expected that Muncie, Anderson and Marion would give such a tremendous "wet" vote that their counties would retin the saloons. Labor unions "resolved" against the local option election, but it is said that on thousands of "dry" ballots there were the grimy imprint of the fingers of the toilers. It is believed that the influence of the women was felt more strongly among the laborers in the manufacturing centers than anywhere else.

A prominent brewer here says the brewers must not take part in Indianapolis politics. "We can't help the Democrats without helping the Republicans, so the best thing we can do is to keep out. We know now that the game is not worth what it costs us," he said. He asserted that the brewers are "between the devil and the deep blue sea" here. "We would like to close all the saloons on Sunday and at the regular hours at night," said he, "but we can't do it. Some time ago we inaugurated a movement among the saloon men for strict Sunday closing. Practically all of the downtown bars are closed on Sunday. In the outskirts, however, the problem is more difficult. The little saloon keeper has his friends who tease him to open up for them and sell them a drink. They sit around a table and drink, for these places are clubs for the poor men. As much as we would like to close them, we can't. You have no idea the number of people throughout the entire city who telephoned or wrote me about closing up the town on Sundays. Some of them came right out and said that if the saloons are to be closed on Sunday we might as well vote the county and city 'dry,' so there you are. I can't see what we can do about it." He added that the brewers were through with financing campaigns and that from now on they will devote their resources to looking after their own affairs. The brewers, he said, are going in for a campaign of education to establish the saloon business on a better basis and to show the people that state-wide prohibition is a fallacy from a moral standpoint.

Charles R. Riley of Rushville, secretary of the Indiana Railroad commission, is strongly indorsed for a position as special examiner under the interstate commerce commission. The salary of special examiner is $2,520 a year with traveling expenses in addition.

IMPRISONED IN A CAR

Man in Missouri Released After Being Six Days Without Food or Drink.

St. Charles, Mo., May 31.—A switchman in the yards here, standing near a box car, heard a pounding from the inside, and on opening the car found Charles Davis, who had been imprisoned for six days without food or drink. The man was nearly unconscious, and the pounding of his foot against the car door was mostly by reflex action. He had climbed into the empty car six days before at Oklahoma City, intending to go to St. Louis. Shortly before the train pulled out he heard the pin dropped into the outside lock of the car and realized that he was imprisoned.

Astronomers Interested.

Washington, May 31.—Two interesting spectacles in the astronomical world will occur during the coming month. These events will be eclipses of the moon and sun, the former on June 3 and the latter on June 17. The moon will rise totally eclipsed and its totality will last about an hour, while the sun will only be in totality near the north pole.

A Compromise Verdict.

Chicago, May 31.—A compromise verdict, inflicting a penalty of $500 each on Martin B. Madden, Fred A. Pouchot and M. J. Boyle, the labor leaders found guilty of conspiracy to extort money from the Joseph Klicka company, was returned by the jury in whose hands the fate of the three defendants had rested for more than two days.

Longboat Broke Record.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 31.—Tom Longboat defeated a crack four-man relay team at Athletic park Sunday in a twelve-mile race in 1:04:32, taking the world's record for that distance by barely a minute. Though the relay men took seven turns against him the red man finished half a mile ahead of the last team run.

"Bill" Arnold will take his "tray-trotters" quartet on the Chicago excursion, June 4.

John Schaffer of Knightstown has accepted a position in Charley Moore's barber shop.

Mrs. Peter Schetgen of North Harrison street is suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

An ex parte petition to sell real estate was filed by Alta Coy et al., in the Rush circuit court Saturday.

Some one has suggested that the town hall be filled with hay and then Rushville would be strictly in line with other towns of five hundred inhabitants or less.

The county commissioners met as turnpike directors Saturday and awarded several contracts for gravel and stone.

A large number of base ball fans saw the game between Connersville and the Nebraska Indians Sunday in Connersville.

Senator E. E. Moore has taken over a big interest in the Connersville Morning Courier, and will likely take the editorial chair.

Jerry Lambert, who fell on the down-town streets Thursday evening, is in a critical condition. Symptoms of paralysis are developing.

Anyway, one could travel far and wide and not find a better place to die than in Rushville. Our cemetery has them all beaten—that's on the dead.

The Nebraska Indians were defeated by the Connersville Grays yesterday by the score of 4 to 3. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of the heavy down-pour of rain. The Indians played there again today.

A motion for a change of venue to another county in the damage suit of Wolfe vs. the Big Four railroad was made in the circuit court Saturday.

Judgment for the defendant for costs in the case of Hannah Wolfe Hunt vs. James DeWitt et al. on a note was rendered in court Saturday morning.

Misses Georgia Wyatt, Florence Frazee, Hazel Cox, Martha Hogsett, and Ruby Norris went to Carthage Saturday afternoon in Will Alexander's automobile.

East Hill cemetery never did look more beautiful than it does this year. We should feel proud of our cemetery and the men who have given years of service to make it what it is.

The Chautauqua promoters are working hard to make the organization a permanent one. It is very probable that it will be held in connection with the teachers' institute.

The Vaudet and Palace theaters could hardly accommodate the large crowds Saturday evening. And the reason for this is that they keep up a persistent and judicious campaign of advertising. Of course people get value receipt for their money but of advertising. Of course people people around. Any merchant could do the same thing.

It is openly conceded all over Indiana, that the Christians of this city not only have the most talented preacher, but the best singers to be found in any of the churches, Indianapolis churches not excepted.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Vaudet tonight the film to be shown will be "The Drunkard's Reformation." The new illustrated song to be sung is "Billy Dear." Both the Palace and Vaudet change their program every night and are drawing immense crowds.

The management of the Palace theater has an excellent bill to offer in the three subjects, "Old Aunt Hannah's Cat," "Beware of Evil Companions," and "Larry, the Limit For Devilry." DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You
 Follow This Rushville Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Rushville. Follow the advice of a Rushville citizen and be cured yourself.

Mrs. B. W. Reynolds, 620 West Fifth street Rushville, Ind., says: "I had a constant backache that robbed me of energy and had a bad effect on my health. I was also subject to headaches and I rested poorly at night. Nothing I used brought relief and finally seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed by people who have taken them with benefit, I procured a supply from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, I have had no backache and I have felt better in every respect. This remedy has my hearty endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

painfully and simultaneously was twisted from the mate's grasp, while in his surprise Kirkwood's grip on the bag handle relaxed. It was torn forcibly from his fingers just as he received a heavy blow on his chest from the mate's fist. He staggered back.

By the time he had recovered from the shock Hobbs was a score of feet away, the satchel tucked under his arm, his body bent almost double, running like a jack rabbit. Ere Kirkwood could get under way in pursuit the mate had dodged out of sight round the corner. When the American caught sight of him again he was far down the block and bettering his pace with every jump.

He was approaching, also, some six or eight good citizens of Calais, men of the laboring class, at a guess. Their attention attracted by his frantic flight, they stopped to wonder. One or two moved as though to intercept him, and he doubled out into the middle of the street with the quickness of thought. An instant later he shot around another corner and disappeared, the natives streaming after in hot chase, electrified by the inspiring strains of "Stop thief!" or its French equivalent.

The mob straggled round yet another corner and was gone. Its clamor diminished on the still spring air, and Kirkwood, recovering, abandoned Mr. Hobbs to the justice of the high gods and the French system of jurisprudence. At least he hoped the latter would take an interest in the case if haply Hobbs were laid by the heels and went his way rejoicing.

As for the scratch on his arm, it was nothing, as he presently demonstrated to his complete satisfaction in the seclusion of a chance street flaccid. Kirkwood, commissioning it to drive him to the American consulate, made his diagnosis en route, wound a handkerchief round the negligible wound, rolled down his sleeve and forgot it altogether in the joys of picturing to himself Hobbs in the act of opening the satchel in expectation of finding therein the gladstone bag.

At the consulate door he paid off the driver and dismissed him. The flaccid had served his purpose, and he could find his way to the Terminus hotel at infinitely less expense. He had a considerably harder task before him as he ascended the steps to the consular doorway, knocked and made known the nature of his errand.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The sage made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. The objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its souring quickly. The objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

No malicious destiny could have timed the hour of his call more appositely. The consul was at home and at the disposal of his fellow citizens—within bounds.

In the course of thirty minutes or so Kirkwood emerged with dignity from the consulate, his face crimson to the hair, his soul smarting with shame and humiliation, and left an amused official representative of his country's government with the impression of having been entertained to the point of ennui by an exceptionally clumsy but pertinacious liar.

He disappeared, the natives streaming after in hot chase.

At noon precisely, his suspense grown too onerous for his strength of will, throwing caution and their understanding to the winds, he walked boldly into the Terminus and inquired for Miss Calendar.

When at length she appeared on the threshold of the apartment, bringing with her the traveling bag and looking wonderfully the better for her ninety minutes of complete repose and privacy, the relief he experienced was so intense that he remained transfixed in the middle of the floor, momentarily able neither to speak nor to move.

On her part, so fagged and distraught did he seem, that at sight of his careworn countenance she hurried to him with outstretched, compassionate hands and a low, pitiful cry of concern, forgetful entirely of that which he himself had forgotten—the emotion she had betrayed on parting.

"Oh, nothing wrong," he hastened to reassure her, with a sorry ghost of his familiar grin, "only I have lost Hobbs and the satchel with your things, and there's no sign yet of Mr. Calendar. We can feel pretty comfortable now, and—and I thought it time we had something like a meal."

The narrative of his adventure which he delivered over their dejeuner a la fourchette contained no mention either of his rebuff at the American consulate or the scratch he had sustained during Hobbs' murderous assault. The one could not concern her; the other would seem but a bid for her sympathy. He counted it a fortunate thing that the mate's knife had been keen enough to penetrate the cloth of his sleeve without tearing it. The slit it had left was barely noticeable. And he purposely diverted the girl with flashes of humorous description, so that they discussed both meal and episode in a mood of wholesome merriment.

It was concluded, all too soon for the taste of either, by the waiter's announcement that the steamer was on the point of sailing.

Outwardly composed, inwardly quaking, they boarded the packet, meeting with no misadventure whatever—if we are to except the circumstance that when the restaurant bill was settled

TODD TO TRAIN ON AIR

Aeronaut to Prepare Astronomer
For Trip Toward Mars.

WILL HAVE TO BE SKY BROKEN

Both Must Learn to Breathe Tank
Oxygen Before They Make Balloon
Journey to Signal the Planet—Will Use Water Ballast and Carry Ten Miles of Wire.

Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, got back to New York from Amherst college the other day, having spent several days with Professor David P. Todd, the astronomer, planning the details of the balloon trip that he and the professor have promised themselves to take on the 15th of next September. Mars will be nearest the earth then, and the professor is going to try to intercept some of the electric messages he believes the wise old Martians have been patiently firing at us for decades.

"I don't know about getting in touch with Mars—that's the professor's business—but I have contracted to take him up ten miles, and I'm going to do it," said the aeronaut.

Stevens added that the professor was engrossed by the prospect of the trip and was ready to begin training right away.

Of course first of all the professor will have to be sky broken. He is going to begin on that in a few days, when Stevens will take him and a few of his Amherst boys on a little ascension at Springfield, Mass. After that, if the professor follows the aeronaut's directions, he will go up every week or so and learn to like it.

For the month of August the professor has laid out a course of training for himself and Stevens. It will consist of regular exercises at breathing tank oxygen in an air tight compartment. Stevens will probably take this course at Amherst. Its purpose will be to acclimate them to life in the air tight aluminum compartments in which they will be penned for a greater part of their flight.

"One of the things that we settled at Amherst," said Stevens, "was the question of ballast. That has been troubling us. It will be impossible for us, penned up in our aluminum cases, to handle sand or anything of that sort. We have concluded, however, to carry water as ballast, which will be released by stopcocks in the aluminum boxes."

The balloon which Stevens will use has a lifting power of two and a half tons, but the aeronaut says he will make ample provisions for expansion in the rarefied regions, starting out probably with the balloon not more than one-third inflated; also he is going up a mighty sight faster than he would ordinarily, so as to keep from freezing when the balloon touches the high points.

"The throwing over of a quarter of a pound of ballast will send my balloon up a thousand feet," said he, "but when we start on the great ascension we will drop probably fifty pounds of water at a time."

Of course, being cooped up in the aluminum pens and fed on oxygen, speed won't interfere with their breathing.

Stevens declared that he and the professor are dreadfully in earnest with this project; that they have already placed orders in France for a special barograph and other instruments that will guide them in their flight; also they have begun to make arrangements for the manufacture of the aluminum cases and for about ten miles of special wire that the professor wants to pay out so as to keep in touch with the earth. Stevens estimates that the ten miles of special wire will weigh only about 200 pounds.

"It seems to be indispensable," said the aeronaut, "to the professor's scheme for getting into wireless communication with Mars. He has got to be grounded or something."

The aluminum tanks will close air tight like a refrigerator; but, according to the present day plans, they will be furnished with a heavy glass floor and windows. Mr. Stevens didn't expect, however, that they would have to resort to their tanks until they attain a height of five miles or more. They will have a little chair in each aluminum box and a good supply of "heat producing" food.

Stevens has never been higher than four and three-quarter miles. He said recently:

"Three Frenchmen went up eight and a quarter miles about a year ago, but one of them was frozen to death and another paralyzed. They weren't prepared for such a height, however, and we will be. We intend to go up at least until it is impossible to draw oxygen from our tanks, and then, of course, we will take the warning and drop, for a balloon, my boy, always has the energy to drop."—New York Sun.

Shoes of Bronze For Women.

Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden has given society something new to talk about with her bronze shoes and slippers. It is a time for the unusual in footwear. The suede shoe already is mostly a matter of history, and there has been nothing fit to match the bronze shoe which Mrs. Burden wears both afternoon and evening. The effect is not as startling as might be expected. In fact, the bronze shoe has one advantage in giving a small effect to the feet, and the color shades tastefully with certain bright gowns. There is no doubt that as a result of Mrs. Burden's example bronze shoes will be worn in the near future by many women.

DEVICE TO TELL ALL WEIGHTS

Electric Dial Will Be Check on Scales on Steamship Piers.

By a system of electric dials to be installed in the custom house at New York Collector Loeb will be able to keep a check on the work of the government weighers on the various piers, and every pound of merchandise recorded on the United States scales will be repeated on the face of the dials in the collector's office several miles away.

General Clarkson, surveyor of the port of New York, who has been trying for years to change the old methods of weighing merchandise, has been permitted by the treasury department to carry out his plans. He said the other day that forty-five of this new type of weighing machine will be needed, twenty of which will be built at once. It is a type of machine of which the treasury department has exclusive control, the first machine of the kind having been built for the United States mint in Philadelphia.

"A small royalty will have to be paid to the inventor of this machine, who heretofore has not reaped much advantage from his invention," said General Clarkson. "The inventor, by the way, Frank Davis, told me he had been unable to get his invention taken up by any of the big manufacturers of scales."

Connected with each of the forty-five machines on as many piers will be a wire running to the custom house, operating a dial hand, which will duplicate the weight, together with an indicator giving a description of the merchandise being weighed.

MILLIONAIRE'S RARE GARDEN.

Wonderful Collection of Plants and Trees to Adorn California Mansion.

H. E. Huntington, who is building the most palatial country mansion in the west on the old Shorb rancho, eleven miles northeast of Los Angeles, is ransacking the earth for rare trees and shrubs to grace his beautiful grounds of 408 acres. Already the landscape admirably balances with hill and dale, plain, plateau and deep canyons on the edge of the San Gabriel valley, containing the largest collection of old oaks in the south, and to these the trolley magnate has added $23,000 worth of plants from many lands, while expending $100,000 on the grounds, upon which forty gardeners have been at work for two years. And this is but the beginning.

Every week shipments of trees and shrubs from Asia, Africa and South America arrive. Huntington recently purchased $6,000 worth of trees in China and Japan. Included in these are five palms which cost $200 to $550 each. Ferns from Australia and New Zealand are also coming to be added to an already great collection.

WARSHIP'S NOVEL GIFT

South Carolina to Have Silver
Service Picturing State History.

DISPUTED EVENTS DEPICTED.

Native Trees and Plants Also on Plate to Be Presented by Palmetto State to the New All-big-gun Battleship.
No Reference to the Civil War in the Designs.

When the battleship South Carolina, which will be the second of American all-big-gun battleships to be completed, goes into commission a few months hence she will receive from the state of South Carolina one of the most elaborate silver services ever presented to an American warship. Governor Ansel of South Carolina, who is chairman of the commission that is to award the contract for the service, has sent out the plans and specifications to prospective bidders. These plans show that the service will be a complete pictorial history of South Carolina during the Revolution, while every flower, every plant and every tree that is indigenous to South Carolina will appear on some of the pieces.

The service will consist of fifty-three silver pieces and an elaborate metal mounted humidor that can hold 300 cigars. The silver of which the service is to be made must be of the finest, of uniform fineness and standard grade, and the designs submitted by the bidders must be at the state capitol in Columbia by June 10, when the contract for the manufacture of the service will be awarded.

The principal centerpieces are to bear three incidents in the Revolutionary history of the Palmetto State, happenings which in two cases many historians declare never took place. These are Sergeant Jasper scaling the walls of Fort Moultrie to rescue the flag of the new nation that fell outside the breastworks when the flagstaff was severed by a British bullet, General Francis Marion entertaining the British officers at a dinner whose only course was baked potatoes served on tree bark and the burning of his home by Mrs. Motte to prevent it from being made use of by the king's soldiers.

In addition to these three principal designs there are to be etchings on other pieces of General Marion, General Moultrie, General Daniel Morgan, General Pickens, Commander Ingraham, U. S. N.; the battleship South Carolina and the words "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute."

Other pieces will show the palmetto tree, the sweet jasmine, the magnolia tree, the trumpet vine, the strawberry, the long cucumber shaped watermelons that only South Carolina farmers grow, the cotton plant, rice fields and the peach trees of the Piedmont.

The circular sent out to the bidders states that the "designs are to consist of a combination nautical in their suggestion." Each piece must have a different design.

In none of the designs is there any reference to the civil war, as was the case in the service presented by the state of Mississippi to the battleship of that name.—New York Times.

POLLY IN THE AUTO THE FAD.

Parrot in Motor Car Newest Conceit
Among the Very Smart.

The latest fad among automobilists is to take a live parrot along in the motor car. This newest conceit made its appearance on Broadway, in New York, the other afternoon. The bird, a big green one with scarlet facings, was perched atop the tonneau door of a brown motor of the roadster type, in which were three fashionably dressed women.

They were very attentive to the bird, who with the agility of a tight-rope performer side stepped from the door top around to the back of the chauffeur's seat. He pecked playfully at the driver's cap and seemed to be on friendly terms.

According to the arbiters of fashion, the parrot should be "worn" in the tonneau and should be allowed to roam about at will. The possibilities of the innovation are almost limitless.

Small traveling menageries may be looked for in the near future.

Mexico as a Cattle Country.

"Mexico is fast becoming the great cattle country of the American continent, and southern Mexico is the ideal cattle country of Mexico," said G. B. McDermott of Nacozari, who was in Houston, Tex., recently. "As the farmers and sheepmen have forced the cattlemen of the great southwest of the United States to move their ranges, they are naturally seeking the most favorable localities, and northern Mexico seems to appeal more forcibly to them than any other section. Cattle are being moved rapidly into Mexico from the United States, and the cattlemen of Mexico are now paying more attention to their herds than formerly, with the result that an excellent quality of beef is being built up in the republic."

Tree Planting in Pennsylvania.

Landowners in Center county, Pa., are taking up the question of reforestation in a practical way. This spring a number have planted tree seedlings of various kinds on the denuded hills on their farms, and just now a force of men is engaged planting 250,000 white pine seedlings on the old Whipple place, near Pine Grove Mills. The tree seedlings are from the state nursery at Greenwood Furnace, and the planting is being done under the direction of Mr. Morton of the state forestry department.

FOR A JEWISH MESOPOTAMIA.

Jacob H. Schiff Said to Be Interested in Latest Colony Plan.

Dispatches were recently received in New York from London of a movement among the Jews of Europe to amalgamate all the societies concerned with the improvement of the condition of the Hebrew race in a scheme for the colonization of Mesopotamia. Israel Zangwill, the head of the Jewish territorial organization, is endeavoring to induce the Jewish Colonization association to join forces with his society to bring this result about.

Jacob H. Schiff, who is now in Europe, is said also to be interesting himself in the matter and to be doing his best to effect the alliance between the organizations, which will be necessary if the plan is to be a success. He is said to be interviewing the leaders of the Jews in Europe in the interests of this movement.

The Rev. Dr. Schulman in discussing the plan said that he understood that one difficulty which would have to be overcome was the necessity of providing an extensive irrigation system, which would cost a large sum.

"There can be no doubt," he said, "of the advantage of diverting some of the crowded Jewish population of Europe, and there is certainly enough territory for them in Mesopotamia. While the country would not appeal to the Jew as would Palestine, it has traditions of value to the race. The Babylonian captivity began in 536, and the Jews enjoyed there for a time an honorable career. They were independent and had a prince of their own."

"They set up great schools of learning, and the Talmudic tradition grew up in these parts. They began to decline in the eighth century, and I do not know if there are any Jews left there now, but certainly there would be more to attract them to Mesopotamia now than to British East Africa, which was proposed as the site of a Jewish colony a few years ago. Of course there would be the Turkish government to deal with, but we hope that with the regime of the Young Turks much greater toleration would be shown."

THE SENATE'S LITTLE PAGES.

Thomas H. Carter Tells a Story About the Vermont Senator.

Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, justly reckoned one of the humorists of congress, is spreading a story about Senator Page of Vermont which, although it is taken with a grain of salt, is nevertheless making the rounds of the capitol.

"I was in the senate chamber one afternoon after the senate had adjourned," says Senator Carter, "and Senator Page was in his seat reading. A constituent of mine was with me, and, desirous that he should shake hands with as many distinguished persons as possible during his stay in Washington, I escorted him to Senator Page's seat and introduced him. Later, as we were walking out of the chamber, we passed a number of the senate pages romping in a corner."

"Who are those lads?" my constituent asked.

"They are little pages," I answered. "He looked back at Senator Page and said: 'Whew! He must have been on good terms with President Roosevelt.'"

POEM TO MEREDITH.

Thomas Hardy, Novelist, Lays Tribute
on Urn of the Dead.

On the day of the funeral of George Meredith, the eminent English novelist, the following lines by Thomas Hardy, the novelist, under the heading "G. M., 1828-1909," were published:

Forty years back, when much had place
That since has perished out of mind,
I heard that voice and saw that face.
He spoke as one about will win
A morning horn ere men awake.
His note was trenchant, smart, but kind.

He was of those whose words can shake
And riddle to the very core
The falsities that time will break.
Of late when we two met once more
The luminous countenance and dear
Shone just as forty years before.
So that when now all tongues declare
He is unseen by his green hill
I scarce believe he sits not there.
No matter; further and further still
Through the world's vapours, vitiate air
His words wing on, as strong words will.

The newest belt is made of suede in American Indian style, fringed with thong leather on the lower edge and laced its entire length with Venetian beads.

The upside-down basket effect in millinery seems to have proven a failure, and it is unlikely that many of these hats will last through the spring.

The Napoleon collar is a feature of the new garments. It is made of the same and constasting material, gold embroidery effects being very fashionable.

Some of the smart dress trimmings are done in straw.

Some of the new voiles are so lacy as to rival the nets.

Smart Tips For Men

Silver, harmonizing exceptionally well with the general tone of the summer make-up, is a popular adornment on the new canes.

Shirts with the body made of plain goods, but having plaited bosoms of Russian whipcord, are shown in the shops.

Pure silk knitted scarfs continue to be worn. Onbre effects are also seen in the new neckwear.

Colors closely approaching the opal, bloodstone and moonstone are being worn in jewelry.

Silk colors are in popular fashion for matched wear with the cravat and shirt.

BY THE WAYSIDE

There are two ways of doing good—the personal and the impersonal. Personality has been eliminated in many cases, and an impersonal mechanism has taken its place. The man now does not teach the Sunday school class, but sends his check. The woman now a leader in the social set, sends clothing to the needy family. Personality is the greatest power in the universe, and human mind and spirit can only be reached by human mind and spirit, and the most conclusive evidence of man's sincerity is giving of himself. It is personal service that man reaches real joy and a rich reward. Those who personally minister to the needy hear the words, "Come, ye blessed."
